

From testing bias during the Ming Dynasty to privatization of state enterprises in Mexico, from Russian dissident art to college applications and research proposals, we have been editing an ever-expanding list of topics for many years (which is why we love editing!).

Below is a very partial list.

African American studies

Native studies

Agriculture

Political science

Anthropology

- American government
- civil liberties
- comparative politics
- constitutional law
- environmental politics
- foreign policy
- international relations
- political economy
- privatization in Mexico
- public policy
- political theory

Business Design

Economics

Education

- pedagogy languages teaching
- homeschooling

History

- American political history
- art history
- history and philosophy of

Psychology

Science

- history of welfare programs
- history of computing

Religion

- Catholic revival history

Journalism

Sociology

Literary criticism and classics

Women's studies

Medicine

- disease control
- history of medicine,
especially the development of medicine as a science
  - comparative medicine
  - policy analysis
  - politics of medicine
  - public health